EATING the same foods all the time is as threeome as taking the same walk every day—or reading the same book over and over. Occasionally, however, we seem to refuse to be bored. Tomatoes, for instance. They're bright in color and their enticing taste lures us into new paths.

The Italians have found all sorts of adventurous ways for them, sauces that blend into exciting flavors; the French have put them into salads that are as simple as they are exquisite. Americans are doing more and more things that are adventurous with tomatoes. They are taking them with cheese or with mushrooms, mixing them in picturesque little individual casserole dishes, and scrubbing them with other vegetables to which they lend piquant flavor.

Garden Grown and Canned

If you like to garden, set out some extra little tomato plants and see how soon they will crop forth with sixty or seventy red tomatoes for your table. If you haven't time to raise them yourself, eat the choicest tomatoes possible to raise—those raised by the canner—in some such recipe as the following:

Tomato Timbales with Cheese Sauce: Combine the contents of one No. 2 can of tomatoes, one slice of onion, one-half bay leaf, three whole cloves, one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon sugar and a few grains of pepper. Cook gently for fifteen minutes and then press through a sieve. Add one-half cup of soft bread crumbs and two slightly-beaten eggs. Turn into buttered timbale cases or custard cups and set in a pan of hot water. Bake for thirty to forty minutes in an oven at 375 degrees, or until a knife, inserted, comes out clean. Turn out and pour over them a very rich cheese sauce. This serves four persons.

F. F. A. Boys Make Fine Record

One of the best records ever made by the vocational agriculture department at the local high school has been shown in a summary of the year's work, made by Virgil H. Gill, who heads the department.

The total income from projects of the boys amounted to $8,467.82.

The manner in which this fine record was made is reflected in the following analysis of Professor Gill's report.

The following is the part of the report dealing with the Appomattox high school:

32 boys completed tobacco enterprises, with an average yield of 843 pounds, and a total income of $2,739.94.

22 boys completed wheat enterprises, with an average yield of 21.2 bushels, and total income of $324.88.

2 boys completed oats enterprises, averaged 16 bushels, with a total income of $47.95.

47 corn projects were completed, with average yield of 40 bushels and total income of $1,444.72.

1 bespedeza enterprise average. 195 bushels with income of $23.10.

3 hay enterprises averaged 3.1 tons and brought total of 119.40.

1 cowpea enterprise averaged 25 bushels and brought 4.95.

13 potato enterprises averaged 56.5 bushels and brought 154.30.

4 tomato enterprises brought in 59.40, truck enterprises of 6 boys 222.65.

1 orchard enterprise brought in 0.55. 10 enterprises of leying hens totalled 1117.02. Baby chicks added 2 pounds and brought for 97cmfwm 160.29. Fat hogs for 19 boys averaged 398 pounds and brought a

Sows swelled the total by 200. 00, and 15 enterprises with dairy cattle brought 1055.28 to the boys.

Beef cattle added 23.75, Bees 53.57; Colt, 49.50, and sheep added 20.20.

The average total income of the students was $151.21.

About Local Teachers

An analysis of the teaching personnel of Appomattox county made recently showed that only 36 per cent of the white teachers and 2.5 per cent of the colored teachers have 4 years of college training. There are 70 teachers this year in the county schools, of whom 18 are colored.

There are four vocational teachers and 2 supervisors. There are 3 academic high school teachers and 54 elementary teachers.

The white teachers have more than four years college training. 94 per cent received college training in this state, of the white teachers and 83 per cent of the colored.

The average number of years of experience is 9, a fine record, for the white teachers and 7 for the colored teachers.

Circle No. 2 Holds Meeting

Circle number two of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Memorial church met in the home of Mrs. L. H. Ould on Tuesday night; Mrs. Ould and Mrs. Raymond Lawson being joint hostesses. There were 22 in attendance, including four new members.

The program was presented by Mrs. W. B. Caldwell. Assisting her were Mesdames A. T. Irby, J. E. Sears, H. Caldwell and R. W. Jamerson. Mrs. Grover Smith sang as a solo: "What a Friend We Have in Jesus." After a business session, refreshments were served.

Mrs. Thomas Phelps is visiting in Newport News.

Milton Isbell Dies

Friends here regret to hear of the death of Mr. Milton Isbell. He was an honored member of the thinning ranks of the veterans of The War Between the States. His frequent visits to his beloved Appomattox had of the infimaties of age been curtailed in the past few years, as he finished "the good fight" at the home of loving relatives in Lynchburg, where he died this week. Funeral services were held at 4 P. M. in Diugald's Chapel yesterday. Interment will be in the cemetery near Stapleton.

Colored DOTS

By R. Q. Lawing

—o—

Over three hundred school children, teachers, patrons and friends from different sections of the county braved the inclement weather last Friday morning to the local training school to witness the first county wide musical contest, sponsored by principal A. E. Jordon.

The contest proved to be an asset to the education of Negroes in the county, and a challenge to the world of music. Each school presented, had to sing three selections, two of its own and one selected by the judge. The selections rendered by each school were highly enjoyed by the audience. The renditions were Negro spirituals and melodies.

The silver cup was presented to the Stonewall cooruses and teachers by Miss Butts, who acted as critic judge of the contest. The Stonewall chorus renditions of "Get Away" and "Great Day" held the entire audience spellbound. That natural musical instinct was stirred in the heart of each individual present. (The Stonewall teachers and chorus deserve special congratulations for their first efforts in winning the cup.

The following schools were represented: Appomattox training school, Spout Spring and Stonewall. Professor W. S. Mix and Miss Lula Mae Watkins sent letters explaining their inability to attend. Principal Jordon wishes to thank Miss Butts for her services as critic judge and each teacher who took an active part.

—o—

A surprise birthday dinner was given Miss Lenna Mae Watkins, of the Mt. Airy school last Sunday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence booker at their home. The table was beautifully decorated, using a twinkle scene as a background. A well planned and delicious menu was served by the hostess. Miss Watkins received a lot of beautiful and useful gifts. The guests were: Ernest Pennix, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Booker, Russel Johnson, Misses Clarey and Virginia Turner, Jessie Booker and Miss Sarah Booker.

Mrs. Lucy Stevens is visiting her sister, in Clifton Forge, who is in a hospital.

Miss Lillie Claytor Claytor spent the week end with Mrs. Brantley in Bedford.

Rev. A. E. Jordon attended his churches service in Cronet Sunday.

Rosser Coleman of Va. State College is spending a few days with his parents.

Lafond Watkins has returned from the CCC camp in Fredericksburg, Va.

Rev. Mr. Irvin, of Lynchburg, preached at the services at First Baptist church Sunday.

Mrs. Florence Hamtlop spent the week end with Misses Stevens and Hart.

Rev. Irvin, Mr. and Mrs. Julian Hamlet were the Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Coleman.

Mrs. Poecy Perkins was buried last Friday at her home near Bent Creek.

Rev. Elsie Robertson and Mrs. Massie Stevens visited Mrs. Annie Gilliam and Mrs. Alex Branch and Mrs. Dora Dillard Sunday.

Miss Pearl Watson is sick.

PROMISE LAND NEWS

A large crowd attended preaching services here Sunday. Rev J. A. Carter preached on the value of prayer and there was special music.

WANT CONVENTION

Roanoke and Richmond have bid for the State Democratic convention this year. The state committee will meet in March to make a choice.

Renting Equipped Farms

The usual terms on which fully equipped farms are rented are a 50-50 division of income and expense. This type of lease is known as the 50-50 live stock share lease. The landlord furnishes the farm and one-half of the live stock. He pays the taxes, insurance, and upkeep of the buildings. The tenant furnishes the work stock and machinery and the other one-half of the productive live stock. The operating expense and the operating income are shared equally. Slight modifications of this plan may be made to cover special conditions on individual farms.—George A. Pond, division of agricultural economics, University of Minnesota.

DICE FURNISH CLUE TO LIFE AGES AGO

They Prove Trade Flourished, Says Scientist.

Philadelphia.—Terra cotta dice used in gambling operations at Tepe Gawra nearly 50 centuries ago furnish evidence that international commerce flourished to a hitherto unsuspected degree in ancient Mesopotamia, according to Dr. E. A. Speiser, University of Pennsylvania archeologist.

Describing in a new volume the excavations at Tepe Gawra, Professor Speiser points out that although all numbers from one to six appear on the dice, the sum of the numbers on opposite sides does not total seven. Thus, he says, they are like dice found at Mohenjo-Daro, an archeological site in India, and indicate the existence of commercial relations between the two cities.

The dice are among objects found in the first eight levels of the ancient mound at Tepe Gawra by an expedition under Professor Speiser's leadership. He cites also a toy four-wheeled wagon of terra cotta, figurines representing the Mother Goddess and other finds of pottery, stone and copper as evidence of a widespread international commerce there.

The toy wagon, drawn by an animal of terra cotta, belongs to a type known in Mesopotamia in that period but it closely resembles models of wooden chariots found above and beyond the distant Caucasus and the Caspian sea and constitutes tangible proof of trade with those regions, Dr. Speiser contends.

Other Tepe Gawran finds, it is stated, have affiliations with cultures in various parts of the ancient East, including Cyprus, Susa in Persia, and Ur of the Chaldees, Kish and Uruk in Babylonia.

Doctor Speiser first investigated the ancient mound at Tepe Gawra in northeastern Mesopotamia in 1927 when he was field director of an archeological expedition sponsored by the University museum of the University of Pennsylvania and the American Schools of Oriental Research.

Doctor Speiser returned to the university in 1932 to resume his work as professor of semitics, and Charles Bache become field director of the joint expedition.

During the season of 1934-35 the expedition led by Mr. Bache uncovered the oldest city in the world on Level 12 at Tepe Gawra. This month the expedition, which recently left this country for Tepe Gawra, will begin its campaign with the clearing of a still older level.

Assembly Will Have To Work Overtime To Finish Heavy Slate

With adjournment coming March 6, and a mountain of legislative labor still before them, Virginia Assemblymen are neck deep in bills.

The unemployment insurance bill passed the senate yesterday by a hair line vote. Senator Moses of this district supported the measure.

Last week the House passed the general appropriation bill for the biennium which totalled $37348653. Protests greeted it in the senate on account of an increase of nearly $400000 which had been added by amendment in the lower house.

One bill of interest to women in the state met defeat last week when the senate failed to recall the bill limiting the work day for women to eight hours from the generlaws committee.

The senate has voted revision of the banking code and the Dovell bill for a probation system was passed by the house.

The Sunday local option sports bill was "passed by" last week, but its proponents may make another fight for it.

The bill for prohibiting sale of beer and wine on Sunday is on its second reading in the senate.

It is thought that the horse racing and pari mutuel betting bill may be killed in the senate general laws committee.

BONUS APPLICATIONS

Until further notice service to World War veterans in filling out bonus applications will be rendered at the Bank of Appomattox each Saturday from 10 to 3. Rev. Humphreys will be there on these days. On other days Miss Eula Mae Burke of the local Red Cross will gladly render this service.

Takes Place Of J. B. Farrar

A. G. Birdsall has been appointed to take the place of J. B. Farrar as assistent county agent for the counties of Appomattox, Campbell, Buckingham and Prince Edward and will have his headquarters here.

92 Years Old and Runs Again

Mayor Harry Wooding, of Danville, whose ninety second birthday will fall in April has announced his candidacy for reelection in June.

He has been the city's mayor for 44 years and says he is still physically fit to perform the duties of the office. Both in age and in length of service he holds all records in the United States.

Not long after it became known that the mayor had announced his desire to be reelected, it was learned that consideration was being given informally within the city council, for the creation of the post of Mayor Emeritus, and the retirement of Mayor Wooding on full salary as a gesture of reward for his services.

Garden Club

The Garden Club will meet this Friday at 3:30 at the home of Mrs. W. B. Caldwell, with Mrs. Caldwell and Mrs. W. W. Burke as hostesses.

DAMAGE TO ROADS

Winter damage to Virginia roads is estimated at $1,000000 and to get them back in shape will take many months.

FOR ROOSEVELT
